

Anthology Ally Services:

Ally for LMS Health Check

Ensuring course materials are accessible to all learners is a legal and moral imperative for academic, business, and government organizations. This makes it crucial that instructors design their online content in the learning management system (LMS) with inclusivity in mind. The process of creating and sustaining course materials that support the varying learning preferences, abilities, and devices learners use can be challenging. Anthology Ally aids organizations in making this a more efficient effort. The Ally for LMS Health Check service was created for existing Ally clients looking to strengthen Ally usage, identify potential usage barriers, and consider strategies to address these issues.

Using Ally data to examine and strengthen accessibility goals

The Ally for LMS Health Check service, performed by Anthology's accessibility strategists, delivers the following in support of analyzing and improving the adoption of Ally for LMS:

- Analysis of the Ally Institutional Report and current usage data
- Benchmarking and goal setting related to increased adoption of Ally
- Adoption campaigns and action plans
- Implementation support including a series of monthly check-ins

As a result of the Ally for LMS Health Check service, Anthology provides customized recommendations and action items for:

- | | |
|---|---|
| <input checked="" type="checkbox"/> Strengthening the coalition of digital accessibility stakeholders | <input checked="" type="checkbox"/> Leveraging data from the Institutional Report to track progress |
| <input checked="" type="checkbox"/> Assessing and re-defining content remediation strategies to optimize success | <input checked="" type="checkbox"/> Discussing training and staff development updates related to accessibility efforts |
| <input checked="" type="checkbox"/> Communicating and connecting to campus, leadership, faculty, staff, and/or students | <input checked="" type="checkbox"/> Reflecting on additional campaigns or action plans based on the unique needs of the institution |

Who should attend?

Accessibility specialists and coordinators, instructional leaders, course designers, content creators, administrators, and other personnel who wish to solidify and expand the use of Ally at the institution.

- Learn more about Anthology Ally at anthology.com/ally
- Any questions about Ally services? Reach out to allyedservices@anthology.com

