

Connected Learners

Today's modern workforce has unique needs.

WHO IS THE CONNECTED LEARNER?

Workforce learners in the digital space

Learners working at businesses, government agencies, and in the military want online experiences that provide the same quality services they would receive in a face-to-face learning environment.

WHAT DO CONNECTED LEARNERS WANT?

An "always-on" learning network

Learners want dynamic training, remote access, a robust support network, real-time collaboration, streamlined integration, and accessibility.

WHAT IS WORKFORCE LEARNING?

Learning activities that enhance K.S.A.s

Workforce learning and development is an ongoing and essential part of businesses, the military, and government agencies.

Workforce learning events are activities that help develop or enhance the knowledge, skills, and abilities of employees and servicemen and women regardless of occupation, rank, or office.

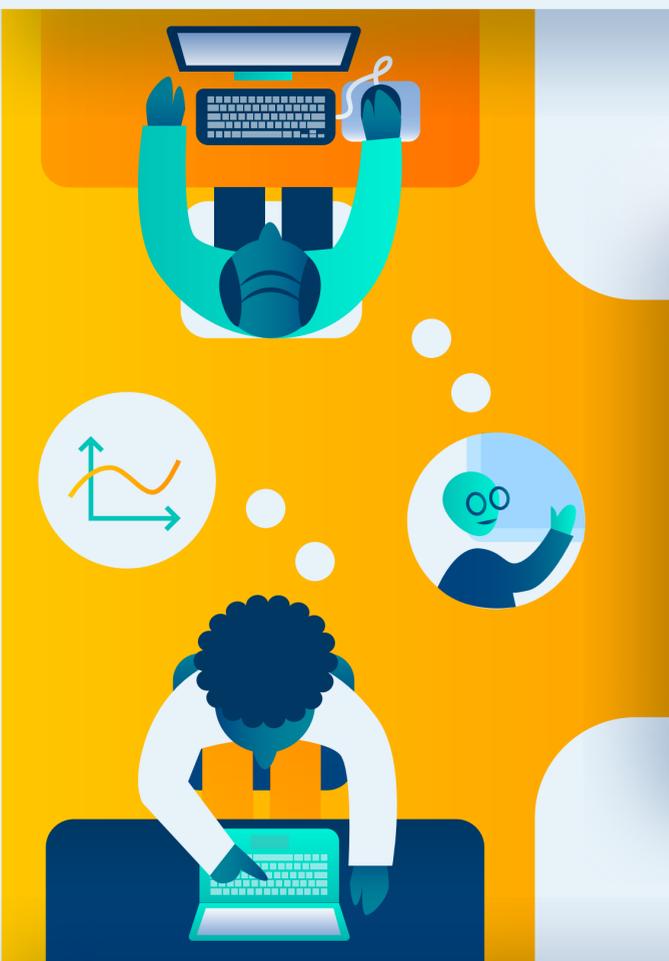

WHY IS CONNECTIVITY IMPORTANT?

Collaboration, accessibility, & support

Today, more than ever, families have one or more members working and learning from home, which means working professionals need to integrate seamlessly into their organization's infrastructure.

Also, connected learners expect a fully dynamic learning experience, to collaborate with colleagues, access to support services at their moment of need, and the ability to service their internal and external customers.

HAVING A TRUSTED PARTNER MAKES A DIFFERENCE

A track record of reliability

When organizations need to engage their workforce in online learning, free, low-cost and feature-light options simply aren't enough. Connected learners need dynamic tools designed for teaching and learning.
